- `committed`
- Your files move through these stages as you make changes

Why Git from the command line?

- It's the only place you can run all Git commands
- If you know the command line version you can probably figure out a GUI